Forgotten Classics

Bijou 17

Plymouth Gin, Green Chartreuse, Cocchi vermouth di Torino, Orange bitters

First recipe was seen in 1895, in the book 'The Mixologist' by C.F. Lawlor. The French word bijou means 'Jewel'. The name of this cocktail was inspired by the jewel-like colours of the ingredients: Diamond for gin; ruby for red vermouth; emerald for Green Chartreuse.

Between the sheets 17

3 options to choose from

#1

Tanqueray gin, Pampero blanco rum, Cointreau, lemon juice

#2

Courvoisier VSOP Cognac, Tanqueray gin, Cointreau, lemon juice

#3

Courvoisier VSOP Cognac, Pampero Blanco, Cointreau, lemon juice

Several interesting theories exist about the origins and development of this cocktail. Usually, it is credited to have been created by Harry MacElhone in Harry's New York Bar in the 1930's (where also the Bloody Mary was created). However, some stories suggest it was already created in 1921 in London. The origins of the cheeky name remain unknown, unfortunately.

Nymph 17

Canadian Whiskey, Lillet Blanc, Merlet Apricot Brandy, Angostura bitters
